The New Constitution. As fittingly illustrative of the painful tension of public sentiment upon the subject of political manumission, may be regarded the voracious precipitancy with which the new conscitution is being pulled to pieces, to employ a Hibernia cism, before it has been put together. No sooner had this journal placed the public in possession of the most important outlines of this precious legacy of feudalism, than our local contemporary lowered his head and made a rush at it with all the fury with which a full-blooded Spanish bull would attack a red blanket. Were it not for sundry roasons, hereinafter to be set forth, we are free to confess that we should in a great measure share the indignation of our contemporary; although we should hope that indignation might be somewhat less characterized by a blind tury which is so apt to lead one into the commission of innumerable little improprieties not always calculated to help the cause in hand. It may bear repetition that the Legislative Council shortly to be convoked under the new constitution still in the hands of the laggard consti-tution-makers in London, will consist of fifteen members, nine of whom shall be elected by the free vote of the people, the remaining six being official or none elective. Such will be the composition of the new Legislative Council which has been facetiously described as a 'six by nine' House. To make the most of the new Council, it will only be six by nine; yet it is something that the peo-ple are to have the odd. It cannot be denied that such a Council will be an improvement upon the existing one. From fourteen official and nine quasi-elective members, to six official and sine real elective members is, without contr versy, a decided step in the direction of complete political liberty; and, asuch, might scarcely be presumed to justily all the severe expletives which have been hurled at it. Yet, after making due allowance for the undentable comparative merits of the new constitution, we trankly confess that, regarded apart from special circumstances presently to be adverted to, we could not consistently or conscientionally counsellies quiescent acceptance by a people fit for, and justly entitled to, that full fit for, and justly entitled to, that fair measure of sed-government possessed by the people of Canada. We desire to invite particular attention to this point; and let us endeavor to approach it with candor and decency: British Columbia is about to pass through a transition or intermediate political condition. In order that we may be the better understood by our local contemporary, for we are especially, anxiously desircus of adapting the subject to his mental capacity, permit us to draw an illustration from a class of natural history known as Lepidoptera. Let us select the cabbage-butterfly, one of the carliest of the butterfly family. For the first state of this delicate creature we must go to a bed of cabbages, where most likely we shall find little parcels the Colony. of green eggs, from each of which in due time comes forth a crawling cat-erpillar, clad in a greenish yellow jerkin, spotted with black; hungry as can be furnished with fourteen legs and nine The cabbage is at once its laider and its dinner-table, and the business of its life is to devour every succulent thing to which its fourteen legs will carry it. At this stage it is 'death on cabbage. And so it eats and changes its dress slightly, until a strange instinct comes over it and it creeps into some sung corner out of sight, or sometimes, sus-pends itself by a silken thread behind the concealment of some friendly leaf, and there awaits that which shall next happen. Here from a caterpillar it becomes what is called a carysalis, or In this state his hongry mouth is closed, so are his more bright eyes, and his fourteen legs are invisible. and his fourteen legs are invisible. Alon Spring comes, the resurrection of the year, which awakes all nature into new being. The great stone is, as it were, rolled away from the sepulchre of nature, The cheysans comes forth; and, lo l it is a beautifu, full fledged butter-fly, furnished with beautifu with; and he floats into the sunny air, and seems to know no limit to his enjoyment. His coarse appetite for cabbage is at an end, and instead of ravenous jaws he is turnished with a flexible three or probesors with which to sip the honeyed nectar of flowers. The form of head is changed. Two long, graceful feeters adorn it now; and instead of the nine eyes he is fur. ished alone with two, with prominent, wonder-ful eyes, cut in thousands of facets, like the finest diamond, and, if each of these be in uself a perfect eye, as naturalists suppose, producing to the creature a more marvellous effect of vision than can well be conceived. Such is the buter-fly in all its changes; and we take it as a not altogether unfitting illustration of a coton); and there is no a co-actypic obscuring about the figure. The various points of similitude are so suggestive that it is to be hoped we need not detain the reader by pointing them out. The voracious grub, devouring every green thing wi hin its reach, is so suggestive of the condition of a Crown colony, subject to be prejed upon by the appointees from Downing street, that it cannot fail to strike the most obtuse intellect. The number of eyes and legs common to the coterpilar state speak for themselves, while the teelers, and the two great, thousand-laced

eyes of the butterfly beatifully illustrate the more perfect Colonial existence under Responsible Government. But, as the rea-Responsible Government. But, as the reader will doubtless have surmised, it is with the chryseli or intermediate state that we have more particularly to do just now. Answering to it will be the particular stage of our colonial existence under the constitution about to be inaugurated, when British Columbia will so to speak, be suspended for a short season by Downing-Street red tape behind the friendly shelter of the Canadian maple-leaf, only to emerge in early spring a period butterfly, or full fledged province of the Dominion. In a very natural impatience the people might wish to skip this transition stage and emerge all at once out of the outbage-eating cuterpillar into the honey imbining and soaring butterfly. But a transition so sudden is deemed not only undesirable out absolutely impracticable from an Imperial stand point. We do not exactly understand why it should be the case; but that it is so, why it should be the case; but that it is so we have reason to know. Possibly to force th caterpillar suddenly into the butterfly might be to have less of beauty and symmetry. The ravenous jaws might, peradventure, be to some extent retained. Whatever the reason may be, certain it sights in the case of British Colombia returns in the case of British returns in the case o may be, certain to age at the late of brings of both most of the winter. Well our position is simply this: The new or 'six by nine' constitution is to be called into existence merely stitution is to be called into existence merely to carry the Colony through the transition or intermediate condition, and, should all g well, the Colony will emerge in early spring leaning in the sepulchere of the past both the charysales shell and the 'six by nine' constitution. Such being the case we have little disposition to object; and the Colonists will the latest despect to tell with the Colonists. will be little desposed to follow the Standard of revolt, and deluge the country with blood!

ROUGH PRACTICAL JOKES ON AN ENG-LISH NOBLEMAN. — We are sorry to hear that no clue has yet been obtained to the perpetators of the series of das and cruel tricks which have for some time been played on Lord St Leonards. It was suggested that some of his servants were implicated in the affair, but their master, at least, had faith in their innocence. The transition of forged orders to tradesmen in his lordship's name which, after the publication of his former letter, ceased for a time—is now renewed. Only yesterday be received a telegram from 'Fowler, of Bushby, Glasgow, to Sugden, announce ing that a heifer and bull would be sent on Friday. The malignant spirit of the hoaxes is shown not only in the persistence with which they are kept up, but the form they assume. One of Lord St Leonard's daughters was on a visit at Torquay, and just as she was preparing for duner she received a tele-gram in the name of his Lordship's buter, stating how seriously ill he was and that he Wished her to come home immediately. This she did, travelling all night, and reaching her father's bedroom at 71 in the morning with the expectation of finding him dying. The forbles —describing the quality and the len-length and breadth of the proposed slabs, and the inscription, copied from the present tombstone, which were to replace he present erection over his wife's tomb, It is an abuse of language to call such abominable outrages 'practical jokes,' and the police ought certainly to exert themselves to discover by whom they are perpetrated.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The European War Cloud.

It can no longer to disguised that Napoleon is bent on picking a quarrel with Prussia, reason or none, and that in his eagerness he will not be over particular about a pre-One would have imagined that the prompt disclaimer on the part of Prussia and the withdrawal of the candidacy of Prince Leopold for the Spanish Crown would have Leopold for the Spanish Crown would have satisfied France. And so it would were it not for the simple but significant fact that Napoleon is predetermined not to be satisfied with anything short of war. In a war with Prussa the Emperor of France would have three distinct objects to serve, viz, the balance of power, ievenge on Prussia for the Sadowa defeat which still rankles at his beart and lat, not least, a cure for mortal and intestine jars. But in order to the attainment of all or any of these objects there must be success. War per se would not do. It must be decided victory, else the not do. It must be decided victory, else the cure will be worse than the disease. In such a war Napoleon would stake everything. The bearing of William would not seem to indicate any very great arxiety to evade such an issue. The manarch who dreads war does not heard Napoleon as he is doing. Prussia may be better prepared for the issue than the gets cradit for. than she gets credit for.

FIRE. - Yesterday at 3:20 o'clock flames were discovered is uing from a shed in the rear of the brick building occupied by Mr Thomas Russell as a glocery store, on the S W corner of Fort and Blanchard streets. The fire quickly communicated to the interior of the grocery store, which was soon wrapped in flames, and to the two-story frame building on the west companied by wrapped in manes, on the west, occupied by building adjoining on the west, occupied by Mr John Goodacre as a burcher's shop. Mr Goodacre and Mr John Yanghan were asleep Goodacte and Mr John Vauguan who taken in the upper story and a smell of smoke. Both sprang out of bed and ran into the street saving only a portion of their clothing and losing many articles of value—among them, two watches. Mr Goodacte's stock was sived by neighbors who were early on the anot: but the fixtures and the building were consumed. Mr Russell's store was nothing was saved, not even also burned; nothing was saved, not even the account books. A small frame building adjoining Mr Goodacre's and occupied by Mr Alex Phillips as a store-house, was partially destroyed. A good deal of Mr Phillips' stock was carried to a place of safety, but a large number of bottles were buildings destroyed were brok n. The buildings destroyed were owned by Mr Phillips, who loses about $2200, go which he has an insurance of $1000 in the Royal. Mr Russell's at ck was insured for $1000, which will hardly cover his loss. Mr Goodacte, whose loss is it ht, was uninsured. A stiff westerly breeze prevailed at the time; had the wind been casterly a most determine confluention must have resulted buildings destroyed the lime; had the wind open casterly a most destructive confligration must have resulted Owing to the scarcity of water, the firemen labored under great disadvantages. The small supply in the wells and cistern in the wichity being soon exhausted by the hand-engines, the Tiger steamer was compelled to force water from the cistern at the corner of nd Government streets, a distance 1200 feet, upon the fire. The rotten hove, too 1200 feet, upon the fire. The rotten hove, too continually burst, and this added to the d fliculties of the gallant feltows, who, notwithstanding these drawbacks, were successful in quenching the flames in an incredibly short space of time. The first alarm was given by Mr Barry, who resides near, and the first water was thrown by the Deluge. The Union Hook & Ladder Company were eminently successful in saving property and presenting the spread of the flames. nearly successful in saving proper venticg the spread of the flames.

SALE OF THE B. C. & V. I. SA VMILL PRO-PERTY .- The valuable mill property on Burrard lolet, belonging to the B C & V I Sawrard lolet, belonging to he box vi came in I. Company, logether with the steamer leabel, were offered again yesterday for sale to the highest bidder by Mr Franklin. After reading the conditions of the sale, the auctioneer asked the crowd in attendance if they understood the conditions, and if they were perfectly satisfied with the title, as it were persectly satisfies with the free, as it was the wish and intenion of the liquidators that the property should be sold and he was repared to offer them any explanation they Trepared to offer them any explanation they might require; also, whether any person had any remark to make before the sale was commenced. Receiving no reply, the property was then offered. The first bid was from Mr O Strouss, $10,000; Mr JC Ninnolson then bid $11,000; Mr Ld Lowenberg, $12,000; Mr Nicholson, $13,000; Mr Lowenberg, $13,500; Mr Nicholson, $14,000, at which som, after dwelling a considerable time, the property was knocked down. It is understead that Mr Nicholson bid under instructions from Dickson, DeWolf and Co of structions from Dickson, DeWolf and Co of San Francisco.

WATER SUPPLY .- Mr William Fawcette desires it to be known that he is prepared to desires it to be known that he is prepared to submit a scheme either to the city or colonial government for the introduction mo Victoria of a steady supply of god, pure spring water, at the rate of 90,000 gallons per diem, the cost of the whole undertaking not to exceed $17,000. Should Mr Fawcette be correct in his calculations, and he appears to know what he is about, the schemis one of very great interest to this community. At any rate the importance of the proposition and the respectability of the man nity At any rate the importance of the proposition and the respectability of the man who makes it claim for the scheme the earnest attention and calm investigation of the Municipal authorities. For a whole community to be dependent upon a supply of unwholesome water is bad enough; but to be liable to have that supply wholly cut off is truly alarming.

THANKS. -Mr Robson begs to thank the editor of the Standard for having so fully vindicated him in respect of the charge pre-ferred in that journal, viz, that he (Mr Rob-son) held the absert doctrine that Canada would permit British Columbia, as a pro-vince of the Dominion, to enjoy a customs tariff of its own. Mr Rubson has nothing to add to the ample vindication contained in the Standard of yesterday. The steamer Enterprise, with 30 passengers and a full freight, sailed yesterday for New Westminster.

A SERIOTE CASE -James Kirk, first officer of the ship General Windham, now lying or of the sing teneral watcher, was at auchor in the outer barbor awaiting a crew before salling for Callao, was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of firing a revolving pistol twice at Wm Fatron. After the pistol was fired Farron threw Kirk to the ground and wrested the pistol from his grasp. During the scuffle Kirk received two or three cuts on the steek and for the side and side an or three cuts on the cheek and forehead, and was first alleged that Farron had struck him with a crowbar, on which charg: he was arrested. Subsequently evidence was ad-duced before the Magastrate which satisfied him that a crowbar had not been used, and the charge was demissed. Kirk was mitted for trial before the Court of but was subsequently liberated on furnish ing security in the sum of $1000 to appear for trial. The affair occurred at an early hour yesterday morning on Broad street.

POPPING IN AND POPPING OUT .- A bibu lous young gentleman while at the fire yesterday morning made his way to the rear o Phillips' storehouse and commenced to provpect among the heaps of bottles for the wherewithal to wot his clay. For a long time he searched, and finally found a bottle which appeared to contain pop. Striking an attitude and inwardly exclaiming with Mrs Macbeth, 'Come, let me cluich thee!' he removed the cork and applied the musting the bottle to his lips. Within a second of the bottle to his lips. Within a second of time thereafter the infatu-ted young man made a wry face, uttered a low cry, stopped the botile and fled precipitately from spot. 'Pizzn!' ejaculated a bystander. 'No,' dryly remarked Alex Phillips, who had coolly watched the young gentleman during the operation, 'Turpentine, and good for LADY FRANKLIN .- the report that Lady Franklin intended going from San Francisco to Australia is incorrect. She will remain in California a short time, and then proceed directly to England. Her trip to Alaska and the far north was greatly enjoyed by her, and was merely one of pleasure, or rather interest in approaching as near as possible to the country in which her lamented and honored husband lost his life. The report that she made the trip in hope of receiving certain papers reputed to have been found in house that that had been east upon shore by a bottle that had been cast upon shore by the waves of the sea, was also a fiction.

TULLYMORE PARK, the seat of the late Lord Roden, is said to be one of the most beautiful, picturesque and romantic of Irish demesnes. It is situate in County Down. The report was recently circulated that II R H the Prince of Wales was about to purchase this estate with a view to residing part of the time on it. The report was cagarly taken up by all the leading pape s, all expressing the earnest hope that it might be true, and its subsequent controlletion had caused very general disappointment.

THE CAMP MEETING. - A gratifying fear ture connected with the late camp meeting at Maple Bay was the presence as worship pers of Iudians from Chilliwak, Burrard Inlet, Nanaimo and Victoria, with their chiefs. The natives were all cleanly and neatly attired and devout in their demeanor. Riven White, Russ, Crosby, Bryant and Clarkson and a number of the lay members of the Wesleyan persuasion took part in the services.

THE members of the Agricultural and Horticultural Society will meet at Mr Burnaby's office, Government street, on Tuesday next, the 19 h inst, for the election of officers and the transaction of other important business. The day for holding the ant business. The day for holding the Show is approaching rapidly, and except energetic action be taken by the Society it must prove a partial failure. There should be a full meeting of the subscribers.

GOING BACK HOME -R. v Mr Garrett has decided to return to Ireland where his friends have raised £150 to defray his traveling expenses. Mr Garrett is acting as curate of the Episcopal Catheoral at San Francisco.

THE FIREMEN'S PICKIC will come off today at Medana's Grove. The members of the companies will meet at their respective houses in uniterm at 1 o'clock, and will proceed in procession to the grounds.

During the winter months she was in the habit of residing at Nice, and had there made the acquaintance of a man named Morplain. Morplain being without resource, they determined to put an end to their anxieties by killing themselves. According to the statement of the dying woman, she left Nice with her companion. 'It was,' said she, 'our last night. We took with us a phial of laudanum, a revolver and a sword-stick. We chose this as the spot for our purpose. We made a bed with our outer garment, laid upon the moss. We slept till daybreak We had prepared everything, and at 7 o'clock came the adieu. I had taken of my white petticoat which Morplain hung upon the branches of a tree. We drank the laudanum. We suffered much, but we could not die. Morplain said to me, 'f cannot bear it any longer; I shall blow out my brains.' I cried out tunt I would not be left alone with his corpse, and I said, 'Shoot me here,' (pointing to a spot where a graning wound in her breast was visible.) Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent service of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.
